

Retention Playbook (Business Recommendations)

Promotional Sunset Plan :

Gradually reduce discounts for Low Promo Dependency and High Loyalty customers. Begin with a 10% reduction in Month 1, increase to 25% in Month 2, and eliminate broad promotional offers by Month 3. Success should be monitored using repeat purchase rate, customer value score, and loyalty score. While a small decline in short-term sales may occur, the strategy is expected to improve profit margins and reduce unnecessary discount spending.

Ideal Customer Profile :

The brand's ideal customer is a High-Value, High-Loyalty customer with Low Promotional Dependency. This customer is most commonly found within the 55+ age segment and is more frequently represented among male customers. They are concentrated in high-performing markets such as Arizona, Pennsylvania, and Alaska, where customer value remains strong despite lower reliance on discounts. Their purchasing behavior is strongly associated with retention-focused categories such as Accessories and Clothing, making them a prime target for acquisition and retention campaigns.
